FAQs

- Who is the activist shareholder and what does it want?

The principal shareholder’s name is Mario Gabelli, chairman and chief executive officer of GAMCO Investors, Inc. (together with certain of his and its affiliates, “GAMCO”). GAMCO has not articulated a consistent or compelling reason for mounting this ‘proxy fight’ or contested board campaign or expressed specific dissatisfaction with company strategy.

- Has our leadership team spoken to GAMCO about our strategy?

Yes, the CEO and others have spoken with GAMCO periodically about company strategy and performance.

- How many shares does GAMCO hold compared to the Scripps family?

Scripps is a public company with two classes of stock: Common voting shares that are generally owned by the Scripps family and Class A shares that are held by public shareholders, including employees, and some Scripps family members. After the Scripps family, who collectively own approximately 17.5 percent of the outstanding Class A shares, GAMCO is our biggest Class A shareholder, collectively owning approximately 16.5 percent of the outstanding Class A shares.

- How many people make up our board? Who gets to vote on them?

For the 2018 board, we will have 10 directors. Seven of the directors are voted on by the holders of common voting shares (which are generally held by the Scripps family). Three directors are voted on by Class A shareholders. GAMCO has nominated a slate of three director nominees in opposition to the three directors that the board has nominated for the Class A shareholders’ vote. Any shareholder of record as of the close of business on March 16, 2018, will receive a proxy statement and other solicitation materials. The Scripps board of directors is encouraging all shareholders to vote for Lauren R. Fine, Roger L. Ogden and Kim Williams, which means voting the WHITE proxy card that they receive.

- When does the vote take place?

The vote will take place at our annual shareholder meeting on May 10, 2018.

- Will employees be asked to vote?

Employees who are shareholders have one vote per share and we hope they will vote.

- Can some of GAMCO’s board candidates and some of ours be voted to the board?

Yes, the three candidates with the most votes in favor of their election will be elected.
